

She Took Her Youth And Beauty To The Big City

An Exciting Romance by the Popular Author From Which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Has Made a Motion Picture—Continued Illustrated by the Celebrated Artist, James Montgomery Flagg.

CHAPTER I THE Weare is a meandering and gracious river, curving in wide reaches through the lowlands to the sea; and it rises, as any New Hampshire man will tell you, in Carvel, down back of Cap'n Somers's barn. The Captain, after his last voyage—he was in the China trade for years—turned his back on the ocean and came a hundred miles inland to make himself a home; and the big brick-ended house he built, with the famous barn behind, stands about a mile south of Carvel village, in the angle where White River and Rapid River flow together to form the Weare.

The Captain brought his bride to Carvel, and a daughter was born there. After he died, his daughter wedded Will Brannan; and Will came to live with his wife and her mother. When Emily and Kay Brannan were babies, Gr—his mother Somes died, and the name died 'till her; but the house was still 'Cap'n Somers's place' to Carvel and the countryside around.

Emily and Kay grew older, and Emily went to Wellesley, and on a certain line morning in mid-June, Kay Brannan was taken to get the mail. Will had a box in the Post Office, and usually brought the mail when he came home to lunch, but today he was indisposed and could not stay. Emily's letter would have sent the mail 'till her grocery order if he had been asked to do so, but his truck would not deliver till late in the forenoon, and this was Monday, so that there was to be a letter from Emily. Kay was alone in the house, and her letters, as she came to town.

She walked, for she was used to walking, and this day was warm, with a soft wind full of pleasant whiffings. Leaves were unrolling, like butterflies trying to—wings. The new grass was springing from the soil, and the old grass was growing tall and lush, as ignorant of lawns as a college student of discipline of the world. There was some late and lush in bloom along the river, and flowers in garden beds along the way.

There was a girl as Kay is concerned, dimensions are of no importance. The girl was tall, and her hair was red, and her eyes were blue, and her mouth was small, only a fraction of the size of the girl's head. She was bareheaded, and her mother's prudent advice she was neither sweater nor coat. She walked as though she enjoyed doing so, and she was laughing and singing and head high; and her heels clapped briskly. She seemed not to hurry, as if the money, yet for a person whose mother uncomfortable.

NEGUS TROOPS NOW HOLDING 2 KEY POINTS

Malake and Askum Again in the Hands of Ethiopians

By ALBERT W. WILSON
CONSTITUTION, 1934, by Associated Press
ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 20.—A high government source told the Associated Press today that Malake and Askum, key points of the Italian northern front, were virtually surrounded by thousands of Ethiopian troops.

Unconfirmed reports said the holy city of Askum, occupied by the Fascist invaders early in the 20 months old campaign, was already partly re-taken.

The sacred city, western point of the first northern front the Italians established before advancing to Malake, stretches out over an area of several miles.

Italy's claim that General Rodolfo Graziani's armies have won a crushing victory on the Italian northern front is a "barefaced lie," a federal government statement asserted here Sunday.

It was learned Saturday night, however, that authorities in the last few days have lost touch completely with Ras Danda Denta, Ethiopian commander in the sector mentioned. His wireless messages, it was learned, had ceased to function.

This development drew no explanation from official quarters.

Reports from the northern front said that minister Biadegest's soldiers had driven all Italians from the Ezdokia mountain range, south of Malake, stretching out in a wide-spread attack.

LEAGUE TURNS DOWN APPEAL FOR WAR QUIZ

Haile Selassie's Request Not to be Considered At Geneva

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
Associated Press Staff Writer
GENEVA, Jan. 20.—The League of Nations committee of 10 decided today the question of sending a commission of inquiry to Ethiopia and financial assistance for that nation were not appropriate and were, furthermore, outside the competency of the committee.

Both questions had been raised by Emperor Haile Selassie. He had asked for a commission to determine whether Italy or Ethiopia was more responsible for the present war in East Africa. He also had asked for financial aid in the shape of a loan.

The committee members voted to draft a report, but the council, containing their decision.

It was also reported that while the committee was ready to exercise its good offices for conciliating the two sides, it was not ready to take any action for the present.

Monarch's Strength's Diminished

SANDRINGHAM, Jan. 20.—Oxygen was administered to the sinking King George V. today, and his physicians announced his strength to be "diminishing."

SANDRINGHAM, Jan. 20.—A physicians' bulletin announced at 5:30 p.m. today that the strength of King George V. was "diminishing."

The bulletin, signed by three physicians, stated: "The condition of the King shows diminishing strength." The affairs of monarchy already had been taken over by councilors of state appointed with the full knowledge of the King.

The disquieting bulletin followed a more hopeful outlook which had been held through the day because of indications from previous bedside reports that the monarch's condition was unchanged and that he apparently was maintaining his strength.

The physicians' bulletin was signed by Sir Frederick J. Williams; Sir F. Stanley Hewett, surgeon apothecary to His Majesty; and Lord Dawson of Penryn, physician in ordinary.

It was considered the most serious issued since Friday night's statement which first revealed that the King was in a critical condition with a weakening heart.

CITY URGED TO TAKE STEPS ON SUNDAY SPORTS

Churchmen Criticize Commercialization of Athletics On Sabbath

Opposition commercialization of sports on Sunday and asking for observance of the sabbath day out of respect for the laws of God and man, spokesmen for the Federation of Churches and Education Ministerial Association have urged city commissioners to condemn the use of city property for Sunday athletics. Hockey and baseball were referred to particularly.

WILL SELLS GOVERNMENT As the delegation has already taken up this question with the provincial government, Mayor Jas. A. Clarke, K.C., said he would confer with the attorney general in this connection and that no prosecution for violation of the Lord's Day Act would be brought out the attorney general's office.

While the city and the provincial government have been attacked by churchmen, it is felt that if these sports are stopped on Sunday, such action should also cover, self, swimming pools, lawn tennis, and airport activities on the Sabbath.

SAYS DANGER One of the interests in the Sunday sports question believed it would be a dangerous move to prevent operation of civic swimming pools on Sunday. "Death of the swimming pool," which makes it unnecessary for youngsters to swim in the river," he said. "There is a danger that children will take to the river if pools are closed on the Sabbath."

LAW OF GOD Rev. J. A. O'Brien, spokesman for the delegation said Sunday observance should comply with the law of God and also those of man. He also referred to the detrimental effect of "over-excitement" on the health and nerves of the citizens, believing that the physical and physical condition would result from a quiet Sabbath.

TRANS RECORD ERRORS AROUND LARGE SURPLUS IN MAGAZINE FOR LAST YEAR SAYS PREMIER

$32,018 Surplus Reported Aberhart Flays United States Writer Over Article

The article appearing in a recent issue of Atlantic Weekly, from the pen of Arthur Davenport, assistant editor of "Hall of Mirrors," depicting the Premier's financial mismanagement, was a "poorly written, unimpressive and inaccurate," declared Premier William Aberhart on Monday in commenting on the article, which dealt with the Premier and the Social Credit proposals he is working to put into effect.

"It surprises me that reliable magazines should publish such articles. It would appear that there must be some other hand behind the scenes—the real story is not in the open. I feel that this will not serve the public and as long as they understand it, the article has little effect on me," he said.

FOUR MID-READER Dealing with the statement by Mr. Davenport that the Social Credit government was elected by a "poorly written, unimpressive and inaccurate" article, the Premier said that he was not sympathetic to him as far as many of the statements had been obtained from less than they had been obtained from the Premier.

"Mr. Davenport is a very poor mid-reader when he suggests I am 'silly' I was elected," said the Premier. "It is true I am not fond of politics, but I have never at any time indicated to anyone that I was not believing and willing to do the best I could to solve the present problem of poverty in the land of plenty."

AUTHOR SCORED The Premier scored Mr. Davenport for not distinguishing between the plans to balance the budget and the Social Credit proposals. He said that the budget was a financial basis.

"Putting the province on a sound financial basis does not mean that the budget must be balanced this year," he said. "If I have put the province on a sound financial basis, I do not mean that the budget must be balanced this year. The budget must be balanced this year. The budget must be balanced this year."

PLANS DRAFTED FOR DOMINION COLLECT TAXES

New Schedule Proposed—Would Apply to 1935 Incomes

Compilation of a comparative statement on income tax laws in Alberta under the present provincial income tax schedule and under the Dominion schedule, was ordered on Monday by Hon. Charles Coughlin, provincial treasurer, on his return from attending the provincial conference at Ottawa, at which the Dominion agreed to collect the provincial tax.

When this statement is ready the government will consider implementing the proposal whereby the Dominion will collect the provincial tax and pay a share to the province. This tax may be retained by the Dominion and credited to the provincial indebtedness to the Dominion.

The proposal is to apply the same schedule to the provincial tax as is applied to the Dominion tax. This, it is made operative, would require revision of the tax schedule and provisions and alteration in the percentages of taxation.

It is reported that if the province adopts this new system, the provincial income tax bracket, which H. Gundersen is the head, would be abolished at the end of the current fiscal year, on March 31.

Also, it would mean that the new schedule would apply to 1935 incomes.

ELEVEN DEAD IN HURRICANE

TAMPOCO, Mexico, Jan. 20.—A hurricane swept in from the Gulf of Mexico Sunday killing at least 11 persons and causing extensive damage.

The 11 were members of the crew of the small fishing boat, Arce, which was overturned outside the harbor by heavy waves. Two citizens were missing and it was feared their crews had been drowned.

TO CONTINUE TEST CASES

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—The supreme court will continue today the reference on validity of eight new laws passed in 1934 and 1935, with the provinces claiming they are unconstitutional. It will continue with the second of the statutes, the one establishing a dominion trade and industry commission.

The hearing will last all week and possibly next week as well. It is the most important constitutional reference ever made by the supreme court and may lead eventually to amendments to the British North America Act to define more clearly the relative fields of the Dominion and provinces on social and industrial problems.

YUKON PIONEER VISITS TORONTO WHILE IN TRAIL

Ernest Schink, of Dawson City, Tells of Changes in Old Trail

Ernest Schink, of Dawson City, Yukon Territory, arrived August 1935, when he was one of a party of 20 organized in New York to try their luck in the newly discovered gold fields which at that time were a world sensation.

Schink, now 40 years of age, is a Canadian and now operating a gold mine in the Yukon, in an Edmonton valley today. He is an old Yukon friend of Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, C.E., and is now exchanging reminiscences with the city's chief.

His trip to Toronto was made on the trail he used to walk there in two hours and he couldn't help thinking of the old boys and the old times as I looked down over the trail we used to walk there.

But Schink, negotiating in Paris and other European capitals for military support in the event an emergency arises out of the Italian position, is not in a hurry to return. He has been preparing for the Cameroon, the Syria, the Vandyck and other lines have been prepared to receive him as a guest.

At Alexandria there now are three British ships, the Barham and the Rennet, 10 destroyers, one submarine tender and six sloops.

At Malta there are three cruisers, 12 destroyers, and nine submarines. At Port Said, the Coleridge, a ship at Gibraltar three cruisers, 14 destroyers, and three submarines.

Seven destroyers are in Greek waters and an undetermined number of submarines are in the Mediterranean. Large numbers of auxiliary craft are scattered elsewhere.
